EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Morland Fischer on September 17, 2004.

The application has been amended as follows:

3. The video monitor recited in Claim [1] 2, wherein said locking latch also has a locking finger projecting therefrom, said locking finger moving into receipt by the groove of the frame, whereby the frame and the shell are coupled to one another when said pushing force is applied to said push tab to cause said locking latch to slide through said shell.

5. The video monitor recited in Claim [1] 4, wherein said locking latch has a seat located between said push tab and said locking finger and said shell has a channel formed there within, said seat sliding along said channel in response to said pushing force applied to said push tab for causing said locking finger to correspondingly move through the opening in said frame mounted for receipt by the groove of the frame.

6. The video monitor recited in Claim 1, further comprising a pair of said locking latches located at opposite sides of said frame mount and slidable in opposite directions through said shell and into receipt by the groove of the frame, whereby the frame is coupled to said shell.

7. A video monitor to be connected to a frame having an open windows, a border surrounding the open window, and a groove formed in the border, said video monitor comprising:

a display;

a shell within which to enclose said display;

a frame mount extending outwardly from said shell to surround said display, said frame mount having a size and shape to be received within the open window of the frame; and a pivotal locking latch mounted for rotation within said shell, said pivotal locking latch rotating into receipt by the peripheral groove of the frame, whereby the frame is coupled to said shell so as to surround said frame mount and permit said display to be visible through the open window of the frame.

14. The video monitor recited in Claim 11, further comprising at least one locking tab located within said shell and projecting outwardly therefrom through one side of said frame mount for receipt by the groove of the frame, said pivotal locking latch rotating within said shell and projecting outwardly therefrom through the opposite side of said frame mount for receipt by the groove of the frame, whereby said frame is connected in surrounding engagement to said frame mount.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record does not teach or suggest a video monitor comprising a display enclosed within a shell, wherein the shell has a frame mount extending therefrom to surround the display and be received within the open window of a frame and a locking latch slideably extending through the shell and received into the groove of the frame thereby securing the frame around the frame mount and the display.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
